

ent any other candidate on that side; but we are confident that the public would everywhere receive with satisfaction the compliment to literature and to journalism involved in the nomination of Gen. Morris for Congress by the National Democracy of that District.

It seems that there was some difficulty in the Constitutional Convention at Ulster respecting one of its members, and the following conversation is reported as having occurred on the subject:

"A delegate desired to know if J. A. Fisher of the Fifth District was sound? He had kept the name of Daniel S. Pittsford at the head of his paper for a year, and a few years ago he was Breckinridge man." He thought this rather a sudden conversion.

"Mr. Erastus Brooks did not believe that Mr. Fisher would do so."

"Mr. Fisher pledged himself to support the action of the Convention, and said that he would listen in good faith."

"What was the substance—Will you agree that Erastus is your paper?"

"Fisher—Yes, Sir, I will."

Considering that the Convention met for the purpose

How is it that the Constitutional Union Convention now adjourned, after contriving a way to handicap voters over to Douglas, or Breckinridge, or both, without saying a word about candidates for State Officers? Are we to have no Constitutional Union nominees for Governor, Lieut. Governor, and the rest? Or is there to be a revival of the machine-test? Or is there to be a revival of the smashers of last year? We trust the public will not be long kept in the pain of suspense with regard to these momentous questions.

"BURYING" THE CAPTURED AFRICANS.

From intelligence received here, there is reason to suspect that the alleged mortality among the captured Africans at Key West, is only a sham to cover nefarious designs which have been successfully practiced in some cases. The solemn mockery of carrying coffins to sea for purposes of pretended burial is well understood, and they do not always contain dead men. Suspicious vessels have been prowling around Key West with the intention of carrying off parties of these poor creatures, and it is believed that many of them have already disappeared, who are now working on plantations in Alabama and Mississippi. Some of the pirates engaged in the slave-trade prefer a descent upon Key West to the hazards of a run to the coast of Africa and back. As Congress made provision for the removal of these negroes long ago, it is properly asked why the President has allowed this delay, if he intends to execute the law. The cry is now got up in Florida that they do not desire to be removed, as if in their ignorant and wretched condition they parties. If the President's organ had any proper appreciation of what is due to his office it would not be so forward to give assurances of friendly relations with one whose whole career is so well known. This very difficulty grew out of an effort to force a costly contract on the Government, which the Postmaster-General resisted. That contract was sought by the very parties who have had such a swing at the War Department in all the transportations to Utah, part of the profits of Reliable information received here states that no Bell and Everett ticket will be run in Indiana. The whole Opposition will concentrate their strength upon Mr. Lincoln, instead of frittering it away by unprofitable divisions.

THE REVENUES.

The last three days' receipts at the New-York Custom-House, averaging about $300,000, have encouraged Mr. Cobb's hopes somewhat, who had nearly become despondent. As compared with the same dates last year, the revenue is double. This spasmodic increase has no significance, and only means that certain classes of merchandising have been crowded together. Last year's imports exceeded the ability of the country to consume prop-
